2. [REDACTED] explained to me the "feasibility study" which is going on in the Office of Logistics and believes that whether or not a machine solution is found to be applicable to the problem at hand the study itself will permit the saving of some personnel. He also explained to me the work which he is doing with [REDACTED] Assistant Executive Officer, Office of the Deputy Director (Plans), in the DD/P area in connection with indexing the Registry. He is optimistic that a machine solution to this problem can be found but that it will take some time. He expressed the view that [REDACTED] was an excellent man for the job which he was undertaking in the DD/P area and said that he felt he was fully "cut in" on the entire project and rendering a useful service.

3. I asked [REDACTED] how the morale was in the Management Staff. He said that as far as he knew it was very good but added that his unit worked pretty much by itself and that he did not have intimate daily contact with the remainder of the Management Staff. I asked him if he knew or had heard anything about the trouble between [REDACTED] He said that he had not in fact but had merely been told that there was some trouble and that [REDACTED] had been sent to the Office of Personnel for an indefinite assignment. He said that he did not ask and did not know what the trouble was.
